The Covid-19 pandemic has drastically affected the arts industry leading to unprecedented implications that have reached far and wide.

Last month the Rose Center Theater released their first ever completely virtual musical revue, Together. In joining them for that special release, they all got to experience the unifying power of music by virtually gathering to enjoy the talents of artists from across the country, at the same time. Based on the feedback they received, what they learned after that historic virtual release was how strong the appetite and desire for the arts and musical theater the community has been craving.

On Saturday August 29 at 7:30pm PDT, they are re-releasing an enhanced version of the virtual music revue. Still featuring your favorite Rose Center Theater performers, but now with never before seen musical numbers and footage!

You are invited to join us for TOGETHER AGAIN, a virtual music revue filled with even more music, laughter, and unity!
